GSA Achievement Awards for Innovation in Personal Property Management

Miles Romney Achievement Award • Gold Star Award for Excellence

Award Nominations Information

GSA's Miles Romney Achievement Award for Innovation in Personal Property Management and GSA's Gold Star Award for Excellence are recognized annually at the National Property Management Association (NPMA) National Education Seminar (NES).

Entries for 2017 Awards must be received by May 9, 2017.

Eligibility: Only Federal employees are eligible. Practices initiated or completed by the entry date are eligible.

Miles Romney Achievement Award

The Miles Romney Achievement Award for innovation in personal property management recognizes Federal agencies that implement new property management practices. Agencies are rewarded for new practices that maximize the reuse of government assets and make improvements to current property disposition processes.

Please respond to each item. These items should guide, but not limit, your response.

1. Briefly summarize the innovative practice for which the nomination is submitted.
2. Describe the background of your organization and how the nominated practice enhanced the asset disposition process.
3. Describe the most significant impacts or results of the practice.
4. Describe how replicable this practice might be elsewhere in the federal government. Be sure to mention whether other agencies or organizations have already adopted your practice.
5. Briefly describe how this practice is consistent with the Personal Property Management Principles.

Gold Star Award for Excellence

Agencies are encouraged to share their Computers for Learning innovative, cost-effective, or streamlined practices or policies that have improved access to computer technology in America's classrooms. These may include practices that:

1. Protect educationally useful federal equipment for transfer to schools and educational nonprofit organizations;
2. Lead to the efficient transfer of educationally useful federal equipment to schools and nonprofit organizations;
3. Assist in teachers' professional development; and/or
4. Help connect America's classrooms to the World Wide Web.

Selection of Winners:

A panel of personal property management experts will evaluate all applications and select the winner. The decision of the panel of judges and of the GSA program office are final. Agencies may not win these awards in two consecutive years.

Recognition:

The winning organization for the Miles Romney Achievement Award and Gold Star Award for Excellence will be presented with an award. All submitted entries will be highlighted in a "Best Practices and Innovation On-line Publication" as well as posted on the GSA Office of Asset and Transportation Management website.
